

Notes From The Cellar (NFTC); Winepairings e-letter Jan 24, 2008

Today: Australian Shiraz value

I am on the road today so this week's edition is very brief. Orders will be allocated based on the time received. I will try & confirm within 24 hours. Thanks for your understanding.

I have enjoyed the following wine on several occasions in the past few months. While many Australian wines can be over ripe "fruit bombs" the wines from this particular producer are made in a more elegant style with the emphasis on purity of fruit and structure. As such they make for excellent overall drinking as well as great accompaniments to food. While this is one of the lowest priced wines in the portfolio, The quality per price ratio here is tremendous. This is a wine to purchase by the case and enjoy over the next 3-4 years. There is very little of this still available and with imported wine prices increasing daily I would urge you to act quickly.

Kilikanoon Killerman's run shiraz 2004 $20-

Keep in mind that Parker's review was in Oct of 2006 since than the wine had over 15 months to further develop in the bottle & is showing even better now

Robert Parker wrote: "The outstanding, elegant 2004 Shiraz Killerman's Run possesses super fruit, richness, and intensity as well as plenty of blackberry and charcoal characteristics. 90 points"

Thanks again for all your support and referrals, tell your friends, Cheers ! Paul David, Chief Fermented Grape Taster.
